

ANNOUNCEMENT OF A RESIDENTIAL SCHOLARSHIP
FOR THE PURPOSE OF STUDYING AT THE VITTORE BRANCA
INTERNATIONAL CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF ITALIAN CULTURE

PERIOD OF RESIDENCE: SEPTEMBER 2016 – SEPTEMBER 2017

Application deadline: 30 June 2016

ELIGIBLE CANDIDATES

The Fondazione Giorgio Cini, thanks to a generous contribution by Avv. Favaretto Rubelli, has created one 6 month residential scholarship to enable a PhD student or a post-doctorate scholar younger than 35 to join the Vittore Branca International Center for the Study of Italian Culture for a research on 17th and 18th century-Venice art of weaving.

The scholarship is for the completion of a study on the art of weaving in Venice, especially in the 17th and 18th centuries, and preferably focused on the process, from the silkworm to dyeing and cloth production and marketing. Research projects on the following subjects will also be considered: the labour force, production areas in Venice, users of luxury textiles, supply and demand of furnishings, changes in taste, and stylistic and technical innovations.

ALESSANDRO FAVARETTO RUBELLI

Born in Venice in 1931, Alessandro Favaretto Rubelli comes from a family which on his mother's side had traditionally worked in the Venetian textile industry since the 17th century.

In 1889 his grandfather, Lorenzo Rubelli, acquired a centuries-old company already producing textiles and passementerie for civil and ecclesiastical furnishings. Some of his other forebears, moreover, were involved in the dyeing business, again in Venice.

Having graduated in law from the University of Padua, Alessandro Favaretto Rubelli joined the family company in 1955 and soon became managing director and subsequently chairman, a position he still holds today as he continues to develop the company aided by his children.

The most important companies acquired by Rubelli include Lisio, Florence, Bises Novità, Rome, Dominique Kieffer, Paris and, in 2005, Donghia Inc., New York, with its twelve showrooms in major American cities.

In 2000 the President of the Italian Republic awarded Alessandro Favaretto Rubelli the honorary title of Cavaliere del Lavoro.

Rubelli has been involved in many cultural activities. They include regular collaboration with the Guggenheim Collection, the Fondazione Querini Stampalia and the Fondazione Giorgio Cini; the restoration of the doge's apartments and other rooms in the Palazzo Ducale; the restoration of the textiles in the Teatro La Fenice, Venice; participation in the restoration of textiles in the Teatro La Scala, Milan, the Teatro San Carlo, Naples, the Albertina Museum, Vienna and in other theatres; and the organisation of exhibitions in Italy and abroad on the relations between textiles and the visual arts.

TYPE OF SCHOLARSHIP

The six-month residential scholarship is divided as follows:

- a gross sum¹ of 6,200 euros as a contribution to general expenses, travel and board, paid in two equal installments at the end of each three-month period by bank or postal order only;
- Accommodation free of charge (equivalent to a conventional cost of 6,300 euros) for six consecutive months in the Vittore Branca Center Residence on the Island of San Giorgio Maggiore and free use of the Vittore Branca Center facilities.
